Morristown Medical Center's clinical excellence and expansion of services, recognized by our regional and national standings, can be attributed to a collective effort made possible by our communities. Philanthropy, an integral component of our success, has assisted us to invest in the best technology, attract and retain the brightest medical minds, pursue breakthrough research and provide patient-centric care. I am both humbled and inspired by the commitment of our donors.

$24.6 MILLION RAISED TO SUPPORT INNOVATIVE PROJECTS, POSITIONS AND PROGRAMS

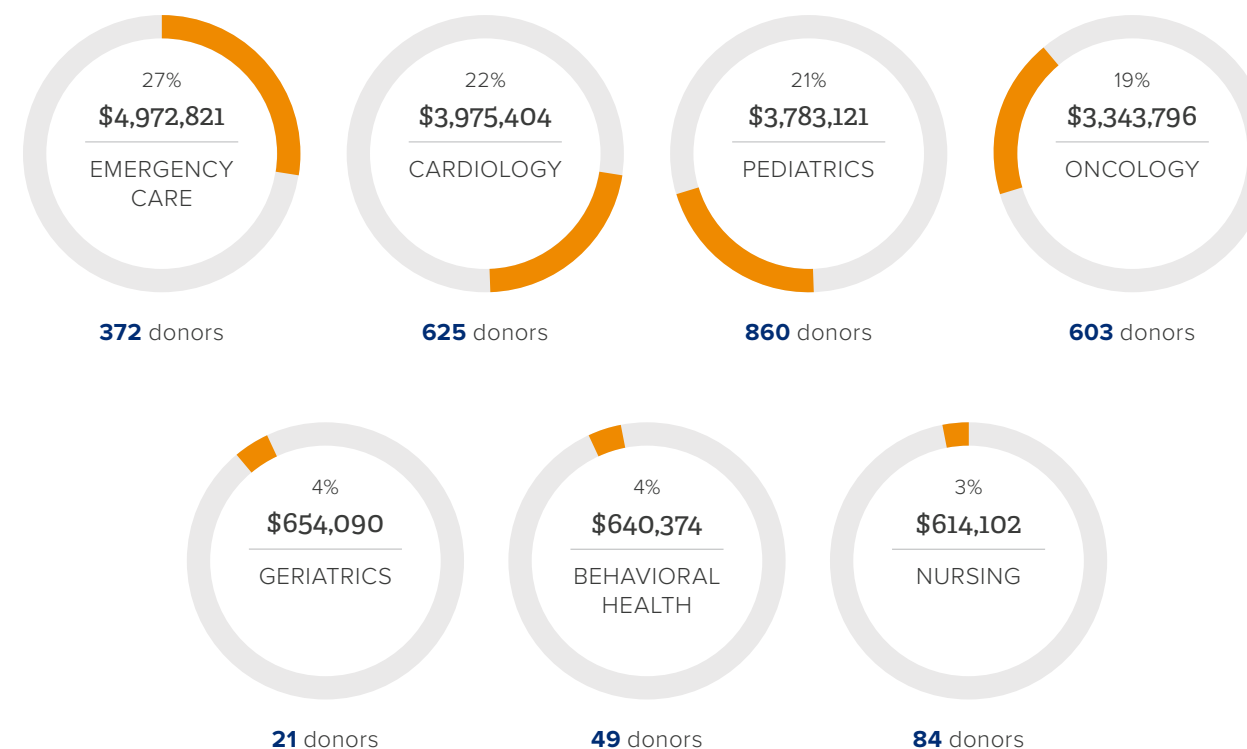

The generosity I have witnessed this year — following the outpouring of support to the Growing Forward Campaign and COVID-19 Support Fund — has been astonishing. Your investment, whether in support of an innovative program, critical position or significant capital project, reinforced what I've come to learn about this community: You are with us, no matter what. For that, I am so grateful.

—Jennifer L. Smith
Chief Development Officer, Foundation for Morristown Medical Center

Here's how your donations contributed to improvements in some of our top clinical areas:

Giving to Morristown Medical Center helps everyone in the community. The hospital has world-class physicians providing exceptional care each day, and often donating their time to the underserved members of our community through outreach programs and clinics. These efforts have a ripple effect, helping build healthier communities where we all live and work.

Celebration of Philanthropy

After more than a year of virtual events, 120 donors gathered at the Celebration of Philanthropy held at Hamilton Farm Golf Club in Gladstone, New Jersey, on September 29, 2021. The event acknowledged those who contributed to the Growing Forward Campaign — which supported the renovation and expansion of Carol G. Simon Cancer Center, Gagnon Cardiovascular Institute and Goryeb Children's Hospital — as well as those who gave generously to the COVID-19 Support Fund and other critical areas.

Heartfelt Stories of Gratitude for Our Donors

In March of 2020, Amy Humphreys was diagnosed with COVID-19 after returning from vacation with her husband. The extraordinary care she received at Morristown Medical Center, made possible by our community of donors, was vital to her recovery.

Contributions to this fund vary in size, but all profoundly impact our medical center and our team members. In 2021, Annual Fund gifts from donors like the Spohler Foundation and Todd and Andrea Christie helped further Morristown Medical Center's vital mission. Several bequests from estates — including Allan W. Staats, Elaine Lawrason, Charles Nuttle, Catherine Cavanaugh and the Henry Williams Trust — will make a significant impact on the future of the medical center.

The late Barbara and Allan W. Staats

About the Donors

Toward the end of his life, Allan Staats' health issues brought him to Morristown Medical Center. The first-rate and compassionate care he received inspired him to establish a revocable trust that, upon his passing, was realized through a generous gift in support of Morristown Medical Center.

COVID-19 SUPPORT

Baltusrol Golf Club members hosted a golf outing that raised $37,500 to benefit front-line team members at Morristown Medical Center. Additional funds raised were directed toward front-line team members at Overlook Medical Center and Weill Cornell Medicine.

Front-line team members show their gratitude for meals provided by FLAG.

A grant of more than $369,000 awarded to the Front Line Appreciation Group (FLAG) of Chatham/Madison through the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (NJEDA) Sustain & Serve NJ program helped provide additional resources for FLAG's meal delivery program. Throughout the pandemic, FLAG has purchased meals from local restaurants, delivering them to front-line workers at Morristown Medical Center.

Gifts in Kind

Amid the COVID-19 pandemic, Mendham High School seniors Sinclair Stevens and Ella McFadden raised $1,000 to provide 70 care packages containing coloring books, crayons, teddy bears and more for pediatric patients.

Cardiovascular Rescue and Recovery Program

Atlantic Health System’s Cardiovascular Rescue and Recovery Program at Morristown Medical Center expands the medical center’s ability to provide 24/7/365 multidisciplinary support to our most critically ill heart patients with access to world-renowned specialists and life-saving treatments through Gagnon Cardiovascular Institute.

ESTABLISHED IN SEPTEMBER 2021, IT IS THE FIRST AND ONLY PROGRAM OF ITS KIND IN THE STATE.

Dimitri Karpaliotis, MD
Medical Director of the Cardiovascular Rescue and Recovery Program and the Advanced Coronary Therapeutics and Chronic Total Occlusions Program for Morristown Medical Center

Amirali Masoumi, MD
Medical Director of Cardiac Critical Care and Medical and Interventional Director of the Cardiogenic Shock and Mechanical Circulatory Support Program for Morristown Medical Center

Led by world-renowned interventional cardiologists Dimitri Karpaliotis, MD, and Amirali Masoumi, MD, the Cardiovascular Rescue and Recovery Program brings advanced clinical expertise to our community and elevates Gagnon’s standing among the top-tier heart programs in the country.

A lead gift from long-time donors Neil and Lois Gagnon helped facilitate the launch of this critical program.

In addition to the Gagnon family, generous support from Foundation for Morristown Medical Center Trustee Glenn Yarnis and his wife Marcie, Foundation Trustee Fran Davino, Foundation Honorary Trustees Barbara and Bob Luciano as well as Mark and Sharon Newman has also helped to make this leading-edge program possible.

Hypertrophic Cardiomyopathy (HCM)

There's no other place to get treatment in this area for HCM. Morristown Medical Center is a fabulous hospital, and they did a great job with me.

—Jonathan G. Dietz
Morristown Medical Center Patient and Donor

Morristown Medical Center’s HCM program is the only dedicated program in the state and one of only two on the East Coast. Advances in sports cardiology and HCM at the Chanin T. Mast Center for Hypertrophic Cardiomyopathy at Gagnon Cardiovascular Institute are made possible by our community of donors.

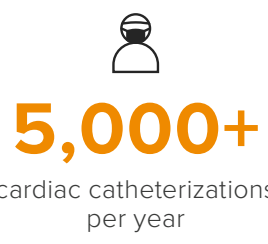

Sports Cardiology Symposium

The John Taylor Babbitt Foundation funded a virtual symposium entitled, “COVID-19 Virus, Vaccine and the Heart: How to Safely Return to Youth and Competitive Sports,” which took place on August 16, 2021, and had more than 280 registrants. Matthew W. Martinez, MD, led the seminar that featured four national experts, including Jason Kessler, MD, MPH, section chief, Infectious Disease for Morristown Medical Center.

Interventional Cardiology Fellowship Fund

The Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory at Gagnon Cardiovascular Institute is one of the busiest in the United States — performing more than 5,000 cardiac catheterizations per year. The Interventional Cardiology Fellowship Program trains physicians to treat patients with coronary artery disease with cardiac catheterization and coronary stenting procedures. Donor funding has helped to ensure that the program continues to thrive.

My husband always felt Morristown Medical Center was about the people, not bricks and mortar.

—Patti Aresty

About the Donor

Patti Aresty became familiar with Morristown Medical Center more than 30 years ago when her late husband, David, began treatment for a series of conditions. “My husband always felt Morristown Medical Center was about the people, not bricks and mortar,” Aresty said. Over the years, the family built a strong relationship with the hospital that spurred her interest in volunteering and influenced numerous gifts totaling more than $1 million.

Hematology-Oncology Fellowship Program

With the launch of a Hematology-Oncology Fellowship Program that was made possible through philanthropy, specialized training is available to today’s leading oncologists. Legacy giving — including bequests from the Estate of Warren R. Neil, Jr. and his wife Lois, and the Estate of Diane Keene — has been instrumental in helping to seed program funding. The first fellow, Nicole Burak, MD, was chosen from a rigorous pool of more than 175 applicants and began her three-year program in July 2021.

Cancer Care Navigators

Cancer Resource Navigator

The cancer resource navigator, a donor-funded position, assists patients in understanding their insurance coverage and connects them to medication assistance programs as well as local and national foundations that offer financial aid.

Gynecologic (GYN) Nurse Navigator

The GYN nurse navigator, another position made possible through philanthropy, assists with appointments and follow-up care and connects patients with the appropriate medical, social and community resources.

Pancreatic Cancer Research Fund

Angela Alistar, MD
Medical Director of GI Medical Oncology
for Morristown Medical Center

Angela Alistar, MD, medical director of Gastrointestinal (GI) Medical Oncology for Morristown Medical Center and medical director of the Phase 1 Breakthrough Treatment Center for Atlantic Health System Cancer Care, is currently working on six open trials made possible through generous donor support. Contributions from donors such as Foundation for Morristown Medical Center Trustee, Fran Davino, have been crucial in helping facilitate these vital studies. Donor funding also supports the research nurse position, whose work is essential to conducting these clinical trials.

Advanced Cellular Therapy Unit

During an inpatient stay, patients with blood cancers receive intensive chemotherapy or immune effector cell therapy, such as CAR-T, which can sometimes cause respiratory distress, cardiac arrhythmias or neurological changes. Contributions from Foundation for Morristown Medical Center Trustee Juliet Patsalos-Fox and her husband Michael, and donors Robert C. and Natalie Rooke have been crucial in helping to set in motion the creation of a unit for high-acuity beds in the existing inpatient oncology unit.

Radiation Oncology

Over the next five years, the Carol G. Simon Cancer Center anticipates an increase in cancers that require cutting-edge radiation treatment. Renovating and expanding the facility will accommodate this anticipated growth and enhance patient care. The redesign will be funded by contributions from generous donors, including Frank and Mimi Walsh, and will ultimately create 20 percent more useable space.

Gaines Mimms, MD
Neonatologist and
Co-chair of the Goryeb
Philanthropy Council

To train the next generation of experts in this field, the Neonatal-Perinatal Medicine Fellowship Program will equip three new fellows in pediatric clinical care, medical education and research. This program is seeded entirely through philanthropy.

$1,407,993 has been raised thanks in part to the Skolnick Family, the Louise Washington Charitable Trust, Dean and Denise Vanech, Richard and Melinda Richardson and MidAtlantic Neonatology Associates toward a goal of $2 million.

About the Donors

Dick and Linda Richardson moved to Summit, New Jersey, in the 1960s and have come to rely on Morristown Medical Center ever since. The couple recently donated $120,000 to the Neonatal-Perinatal Medicine Fellowship Program.

“It saddens us to see a sick child,” Linda Richardson said. “Our twin granddaughters, Sydney and Zoey, were born early, but thank heavens for the excellent care they received at Morristown Medical Center.”

Pediatric Neurology

The Epilepsy Center team at Goryeb Children’s Hospital incorporates a multidisciplinary approach to treat pediatric patients suffering from this complex neurological condition. Through support from donors such as the Martire and Velez families, we have begun a five-year development plan for growth in treating pediatric epilepsy, which includes the addition of vital support positions, state-of-the-art equipment upgrades such as the Stealth Autoguide™ robotic guidance system — the first of its kind in the state — and vital facility modifications.

Calling All Kids

On December 19, 2021, Goryeb Children’s Hospital hosted a tree lighting in Mickey’s Garden, complete with decorations provided by volunteers and festive performances. The event was produced by Kids4Kids and shown on the Calling All Kids channel.

Calling All Kids is an in-house children’s television network made possible by the Women’s Association for Morristown Medical Center and support from donors such as the Sudler Foundation and Elizabeth and Jonathan Sobel.

Child Development and Autism Center

Many programs and services at the Child Development and Autism Center are funded by philanthropy. Timely gifts have allowed the center to serve triple the number of patients it did when it opened almost seven years ago.

Eight new team members have been hired, including three nurse practitioners and one neurodevelopmental specialist. Creating an autism care navigator position and adding two applied behavior analysis therapists rounded out the team.

Functioning as the front door to a destination hospital, the Sameth Emergency Department (ED) is one of the busiest in the state, averaging close to 100,000 patient visits per year with a two percent annual growth rate.

To address burgeoning patient volumes and to treat higher-acuity patients, updating the department's technology and facility is crucial. The goal is to create an ED of the future to accommodate 30,000 additional patient visits per year, provide a clinically superior patient environment and improve operational flow.

The Campaign for Building Excellence in Emergency Care to support this exciting modernization and expansion project was announced to the public in October 2021 and, within the year, community members contributed more than $4.8 million toward our $10 million philanthropic goal.

THANK YOU TO OUR DONOR COMMUNITY

Geriatrics Fellowship Program

The donor-funded Geriatrics Fellowship Program at Morristown Medical Center is a comprehensive one-year training program for physicians trained in internal or family medicine to gain expertise in the assessment, treatment and management of geriatric patients in all clinical settings.

2021-2022 Fellows:

Lisa Zywot, MD

GianAngelo Graci, MD

Caregiver Training Center

The Caregiver Training Center housed within the Geriatric Assessment Center at the David and Joan Powell Center for Healthy Aging will provide education, training and support for family caregivers of aging loved ones. As a donor-funded expansion of the existing initiatives, the Caregiver Training Center will help improve caregiver skills, reduce hospital readmissions and champion the needs of caregivers throughout Morristown Medical Center and Atlantic Health System.

A $303,000 grant from the Somerset Hills Community Health Foundation seeded a social worker position at the Caregiver Training Center in 2021, enabling the team to expand education and support for family members who care for an aging loved one.

The Bill and Nancy Conger Art of Caregiving Series

This virtual series that helps caregivers navigate options for their loved ones is made possible through an endowment from Bill and the late Nancy Conger. In 2021, more than 260 participants took part in the series, which covered a range of topics including self-care, caregiver support and navigating the end-of-life journey. The series will take place virtually once again in 2022.

“I didn’t know this kind of training existed until Dr. Keerti Sharma gave a presentation at a [Foundation for Morristown Medical Center] board meeting last year. The idea to endow the series sparked my interest.”

OUTPATIENT PALLIATIVE CARE

In response to a growing patient population, Atlantic Health System launched a specialized outpatient palliative care program to ensure high-quality patient- and family-centered care for patients living with complex chronic conditions. Morristown Medical Center donors contributed more than 42 percent of the $780,050 raised systemwide to support this vital initiative.

NURSING

I am continually impressed by the selflessness Morristown Medical Center nurses practice every day. They care for patients with COVID-19 and life-threatening illnesses and injuries — always working to save lives and make patients as comfortable as possible. They place the patient first, and their dedication has touched my heart, moving me to donate to the Foundation for Morristown Medical Center to show my gratitude.

Through their generous contributions, community members are central in the effort to enhance our patient-centric care at Morristown Medical Center. For that, I am truly grateful.

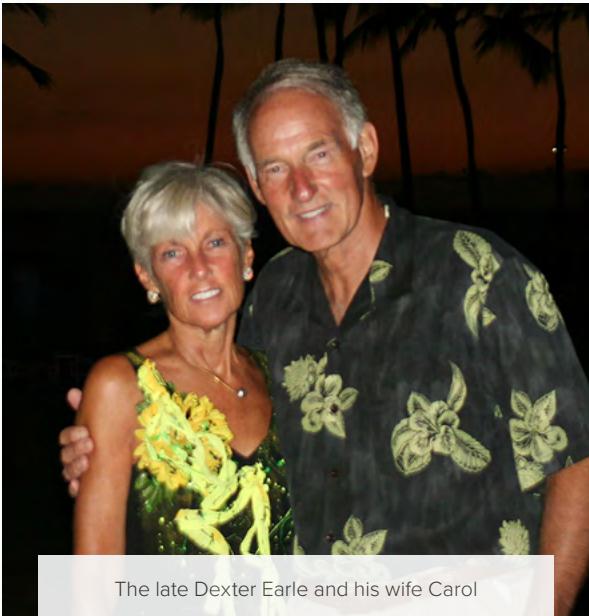

—Brandee Fetherman, MSN, RN, CCRN-K
Chief Nursing Officer, Morristown Medical Center

Thanks in part to the generosity of more than 1,500 donors who gave to the COVID-19 Support Fund, the Nursing Resource Center was renovated and expanded to function as a command center for care teams in both health care crises and operational crises.

Dexter D. Earle Critical Care Advanced Practice Nurse (APN) Fellowship Fund

The Dexter D. Earle Critical Care APN Fellowship Fund was established to support the ongoing pursuit of patient-centered, quality care at Morristown Medical Center. APNs enhance the efficiency of patient flow throughout a hospital stay; support communication between disciplines and between patients and families; assist in developing individualized care plans; and provide a holistic approach to ensure that patients’ medical, physical, emotional and spiritual needs are met. Last year, a generous donation from the Earle family helped establish a new critical care APN fellowship coordinator position to train new APN graduates as they transition from novice to independent practitioners within Morristown Medical Center critical care units.

The late Dexter Earle and his wife Carol

About the Donors

In 2021, Atlantic Health System mourned the loss of former Foundation for Morristown Medical Center Board of Trustees Chairman Dexter Earle. To honor his legacy, his beloved wife Carol and their children Tyler and Katie made a gift to establish the Dexter D. Earle Critical Care APN Fellowship Fund. Throughout his life, the Bedminster resident and Washington Partner generously dedicated his time and talents to Morristown Medical Center and made a remarkable impact on the community.

Higher Learning Residency Program

Morristown Medical Center’s nurses are ranked among the best in the nation. They have achieved the coveted Magnet® Recognition five consecutive times, making Morristown Medical Center one of only 20 hospitals in the United States to achieve this distinction. Thanks to support from donors such as the late Eric Sumner and his wife Patricia, 99 participants took part in the Higher Learning Residency Program in 2021.

Hospital Elder Life Program (HELP)

HELP provides comprehensive care to address delirium in older hospitalized patients, which is characterized by profound confusion, inattention and functional decline. Delirium can be prevented or reduced through protocols like HELP, which provide bedside interventions to keep older patients mentally and functionally engaged. HELP was implemented at Morristown Medical Center thanks to a generous seed grant from the Marion E. C. Walls Trust, which continues to support the program today.
